

Meet The GRAD STUDENT Rachel Woods

What most excites you about your field?

Being able to answer questions and work with the public to find solutions to biological and ecological problems.

- Watts Lab
- Pullman Campus

Life before grad school:

I was spending a lot of time with dead animals working as a collection and research assistant at the Florida Museum of Natural History. I was a part of the ornithology and vertebrate paleontology collections, so some of those animals were more recently deceased than others.

Where did you move from?

Gainesville, FL

Fun fact

Some of my hobbies include building Lego Star Wars MOCs and making mead.

Can't live without:

Frequent escapes to natural spaces. I feel very bogged down and stressed if I don't get out into the woods to disconnect.
